WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

In our last thrilling episode, Steve Rogers discovered Nazi smugglers working out of his army base. He put a stop to their schemes, in the process receiving the first true test of his new super-powers. Steve also met pint-sized con-man Bucky Barnes, the young army mascot who is destined to become his partner.

The U.S. army, on the brink of entering World War II, asked Steve to become Captain America, the living symbol of the American dream. Steve accepted, but found the army had little use for him outside of a propaganda tool. Steve began to grow bored and restless with his role as a patriotic figurehead.

Then Steve's mentor, Col. Fletcher, was kidnapped by the Nazi Death Squad, acting under orders of the villainous Red Skull! The Skull would not rest until he learned the secret of the super-soldier serum which created Cap. At last, here was a chance for Steve to see some real action! Steve vowed to do anything he could to get Fletcher back!

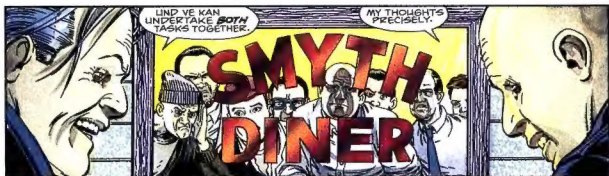

When we last saw our hero, Cap began a desperate race to reach Fletcher before it was too late!

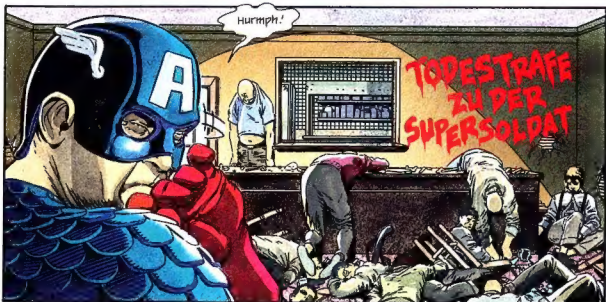

Will Cap make it in time?
